King Albert II announced on 3 July 2013 that he would abdicate in favour of Philippe on 21 July 2013.Approximately one hour after King Albert's abdication, King Philippe was sworn in as king of Belgium. Owing to the amendment to the laws of succession changing from the rule of agnatic primogeniture (Salic law) to absolute primogeniture (in which the eldest child is always heir apparent), Princess Elisabeth is next in the line of succession after her father, followed by her younger brothers, Prince Gabriel and Prince Emmanuel, and her younger sister Princess Eleonore.
